

South Creake - Sunday 9 October - Autumn Leaves

13 October 2011

Coro Stellante gave a beautiful and awe inspiring concert in Tune with Autumn Colours in South Creake Church!

Lauridsen's Sure on this shining night was among the highlights of a truly memorable performance of a high standard by this ladies choir under its music director Michael Kibblewhite.

I'd like to thank everyone involved in last night's concert. I thought the singing was simply wonderful and I was especially touched by the glorious rendition of 'Jesus Christ the apple tree' and by 'Shenandoah'. It was an excellent evening.

Needless to say I'd like to be added to your mailing list.

It was an autumn evening and the scent of woodsmoke followed us into St. Mary's, South Creake. There is much to relish in the nights drawing-in when it means listening to Coro Stellante. The choir and its excellent pianist gave us a richly rewarding concert: highly musical, accomplished, warm, witty and, yes, glamorous too. There was a real sparkle to the event.

As regular visitors to your concerts we thoroughly enjoyed Sunday evening. It was a beautiful opening number with voices coming from behind us complimenting the voices in front of us. A really good opening is very important to any show and this was certainly it.

We were pleased to hear some of our favourites especially "Shenandoah" and the lively spirituals in which we could join in.

It was good to hear John's expertise on his piano and I particularly enjoyed his selection of Gershwin music.

Perhaps you could arrange a Christmas Concert including some secular music as well as carols. It could be a magical evening in a suitable venue.

One small point - I thought the ladies should have been able to sit down when they weren't singing. It was a long time to stand still. (Just a thought.)
